Explanation of Responses:

1. The reporting person entered into a "zero cost collar" arrangement on August 9, 2004 pursuant to which he wrote a covered call option and purchased a put option. Only one of these options could be in the money on the expiration date, at which time the in the money option would have been exercised (and settled for cash) and the other option would have expired. Since neither option was in the money on the expiration date, both options expired. This is to record the expiration of the put and call options.
